

selling a cd.....successfully :)

Went into Sunrise Records on Yonge St, on Saturday, looking for a Leonard Cohen CD, and encountered this young man on stage in solo performance, alternating between guitar & keyboards. His name is Chris Koster, I think he's based in Kingston, Ontario, and he was no doubt there to promote his new CD "Sex, Love & Morality." As I entered the store he was giving a knock-your-socks-off rendition of Cohen's "Everybody Knows", a fave of mine.. Great Cohen song. Powerful Koster performance. And an appealing image. Tall, lanky, nice smile, dressed all in black and an interesting grungy look :) And passion to beat the band !!! I bought his CD :) Hey, gotta support the arts, right?
